▪ Profile and values

When you work in such delicate areas of a company, such as credit and liquidity, you learn to navigate between the present and the future: on one hand, monitoring, evaluations, and continuous analysis, and on the other, the perspective, projects, and the vision of a future that you can contribute to realizing.

My work is like this: it aims to ensure the company's security and resources to tackle the development and growth projects it decides to undertake.

It's a job of numbers and relationships, of technicalities and negotiations, in contact on one side with clients (internal and external) and on the other with credit institutions.

Tennis and mountain biking are my hobbies, and traveling (even for work) is something I really enjoy.
